Shell's Ethane Cracker Plant Parking Garage Beaver County, PA

Sidley Precast Group is part of the biggest development project in the state of Pennsylvania since World War II, this according to Governor Tom Wolf, referring to the Royal Dutch Shell's Ethane Craker Plant in Beaver County, PA along the Ohio River.

The new 500-car parking garage is the only major structure completed at this time. There has been a lot of site, rail and road work completed to give access to the site.

The site of the new Shell Cracker Plant along the Ohio River in Beaver County, PA.

Sidley will be erecting the Central Control Building next month at the job site and involved with design assistance on two other projects that will be coming out to bid next year.

The site will house the cracker, three units that will convert ethylene into polyethylene pellets, a natural gas fired power plant, a loading dock and a wastewater plant, along with buildings for research and administration along with the new parking garage.

Shell's total investment is estimated be between $6 to $7 billion dollars, creating over 6,000 construction and 600 permanent jobs.
