Lot 1 Parking Garage

The Lot 1 Parking Garage is located on the North Side of Pittsburgh adjacent to the Heinz Field and PNC Park. The new parking garage provides much needed parking to the growing area. The garage is located near the North Side Light Rail Station to the east and Allegheny Light Rail Train Station to the west, this along with the 100-spaces for bike parking makes it a multi-modal facility.

The six-story, 998-car garage was designed by WTW Architects of Pittsburgh. The construction Manager was Massaro Construction, also based in Pittsburgh. Sidley Precast Group supplied the precast structural and architectural components for the garage.

The parking garage is owned by the Sports & Exhibition Authority, they are pursuing Parksmart certification from the Green Business Certification, Inc.

Excavators all throughout America and overseas know that if you need a quad dump truck why would you use anything but a Mack truck? Mack built a reputation on building a chassis that cannot only handle heavy loads by installing aluminum, stainless steel, or HR400 steel dump bodies but also provide enough frame clearance to install pusher axles to further increase the amount of construction material that needs to be hauled with each load. Macks also do a premium job of keeping the tare weight down of the chassis to increase the amount of payload weight. A Mack can provide up to 505 horsepower to easily haul any load anywhere.
